

ALEXANDRIA.

FRI AT EVENING, MARCH 1.

IN THE U. S. House of Representatives, two or three days ago, Mr. Kennedy, republican, of Ohio, stated that a colleague, Mr. Crisp, democrat, of Georgia, had been elected by the suppression of the negro vote, as shown by the small number of votes cast in his district. Mr. Crisp mildly remarked that as he had no opposition, the smallness of the vote was readily accounted for, but that at the recent election, when he did have opposition, though developed only three days before the election, twelve thouand votes were cast, while in the republican district which sent Mr. Spooner, of Rhode Island, to the House, where there was active opposition during the whole campaign, only six thousand votes were polled. That simple fact, however, he said, would not warrant him in asserting that the democratic vote in the district referred to had been suppressed. To make such an assertion, he said, he would require the most positive and direct evidence. There are men and men. Mr. Kennedy is a man, but, fortunately for the human race, all men are not like him.

In a recent interview with a correspondent of the New York Herald President Cleveland said:

"The action of the farmers of the country presents the strangest condition of affairs which the canvass developed. They do not seem to realize yet how important the questhey use upon their farms and all they wear upon their backs is to their prosperity, if rot to their very existence, and how much they are neglected in the distribution of the pretended benefits of high protection. Re-flection and experience—the hardest of teachers—must set them right."

The action of the farmers of Virginia is even stranger than that of those of the country at large, for though an overwhelming insjority of the voters of the democratic party in Virginia are farmers, a recent State convention of that party formally de clared for the continuance of the bigh tariff on the necessaries of life, and for the removal of the tax on whisky, tobacco and olecmargarine. The action of the Roanoke convention will be a democratic puzzle for all future generations.

A BILL has been favorably reported in the Pennsylvania legislature to establish the whipping post as a legal mode of punishment in that State. If the members of the Virginia legislature could spare enough time from that they devote to instructing the Virginia Congressmen bow to vote on the questions that come before them, and in vain efforts to repudiate the Virginia debt, to re-establish the whip ping post in this State, they would stand much higher than they do in the estimation of their constituents, and would also save the State a great deal of expense, and greatly improve the morals of a large class of her population.

SECRETARY VILAS and Commissioner of Pensions Black, who were given the places they hold by means of the votes of ex Confederates, have gratified their hate for the enrollment of the bill, and says that as the latter by inducing the Virginia congressmen not to press inquiries concerning him to sign it. their refusal to issue pensions to those officers of the Mexican war who subsequently en- terday evening was a long one, and there tered the Confederate service, though directed to do so by a law of Congress and a decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, until | Judge Heartbridge to be U.S. Judge for ration, it is now too late for Congress to compel them | the Judiciary Committee from the further | accept to perform that, their sworn duty. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1, 1889. Among the bills that passed the Senate yesterday evening was the one for the survey and estimate of the cost of a bridge across the Eastern Branch of the Potomac, from the Arsenal to Giesboro'. This is the bridge to the south end of which it is pro posed to construct a road running along the foot of the western slope of the Maryland beights, opposite Alexandria, as far down as

Fort Foote, if not farther. The inauguration crowd has already come. and any enlargement of it will make a jam. Indeed the latter condition was reached to day at the Capitol, through many parts of which it was hard to effect a passage. Penn sylvania avenue, from the Treasury Department to the Capitol, is thronged, and so are the street cars running on it, among the crowd being scores of men peddling all sorts of republican pictures, flags and medals. That the crowd is chiefly of people from the North was proved by the fact that among the things that found the best and quickest sale was a reprint of a newspaper that contained the first account of the sur render of Gen. Lee and the downfall of the Southern Confederacy.

The sub-committee of the Senate appropriation committee agreed yesterday even ing to report adversely on the bill to set-tle accounts with Virginia for the money she advanced the general government in the war of 1812, but the friends of the bill still hope to have it put in the deficiency bill when the latter bill comes up in the Senate.

In the House to day Mr. Bowden, of Virginia, succeeded in having the bill granting a charter for a horse railroad from O.d Point to Hampton, passed. As it had previously passed the Senate, all it now requires to be come a law is the President's approval.

Some of the people of Virginia are so en amored of Mr. Randall that they get him to present their petitions to Congress in preference to their own members. The farmers of Montrose Grange, Dinwiddle county, Va., through Mr. Randail, yesterday peti tioned the House for the protection of the agricultural interests, and that, too, though they ought to know that Mr. Randall is the most effective friend the protected manu facturers have in Congress.

Instead of a decrease, the increase of the public debt for the month of February was seven million dollars. This is accounted sician at the White Sulphur Springs, for on the ground of the expenditure of Va., for the approaching season. seven million dollars. This is accounted twenty odd millions during the month for pens chs.

As a simple of the slovenly way in which congressional business is transacted, it may be stated that among the bills passed in the Senate yesterday was one for a bridge, from the Fortress Monroe reserva-tion to Elizabeth City county, Virginia, though the identical object of the bill re ferred to had previously been provided for in the sundry civil bill.

The composition of the Cabinet continues to be the absorbing topic of conversation among the politicians here. It is said that Mr. Thomas is not warmly supported by the republicans of his own State for the Navy, but is by the Penosylvanians, for the reason that they think he will give all the work at his disposal to people from their State. There is vague talk about a Mr. Furness, of Nebraska, for the Agricultural Department, and the fact that Mr. Harrison went to the Port and, where Senator Manderson, of Neb aska, is sick, and spent an hour with him yesterday, is said to give credence to this report. It is also said today that if the faction fight in New York shall deprive that State of a cabinet position, the republicans there will demand the Speaker-hip of the House.

When Mr. Randall agreed to an adjournment on Wednesday he practically abaddoned the attempt to obtain consideration for his substitute for the Cowles bill, and there is now no more hope for the passage of that substitute or for any other internal revenue messure, or for any tariff relief bill, than if no such bill had ever been formu

In the House to day Mr. Wise, who had been requested by General Lee, who is still sick, to take charge of the bill for the relief of the Theological Seminary, near Alexan dria, selecting a time when the House was good humar, succeeded in baying that bill passed without objection. It is the Senate bill, which provides, without any provisos, that $20,000 shall be paid at once to the institution referred to.
